Ohio Republicans.

By Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, June 17.—The second day of the Ohio Republican State Convention opened with prayer, after which the report of the Committee on Credentials was presented and adopted. The Committee on Permanent Organization reported the name of General Bushnell for permanent chairman of the convention. His address was brief.

Nominations were then declared in order, and ex-Governor Foraker arose to present the name of William McKinley for Governor. When he appeared the delegates fairly went wild with enthusiasm. Foraker said:

"Gentlemen of the Convention, I have now a pleasing duty to perform. This contest upon which we are about to enter is to be in some respects of unusual character. Not only is the Governorship of Ohio at stake, but the contest involves more than the Governorship, more than the General Assembly, more than the public institutions. It reaches into national politics. A United States Senator will depend upon its result, and more important still than all this, it will determine whether Ohio is to go into the great national contest of 1892 at the head of the Republican or at the head of the Democratic column. [Applause.] We shall win this fight. But we must not be content with winning it. We must win it triumphantly, decisively, overwhelmingly, and to that end we must select for our standard-bearer that man, who, of all others, can most surely command our undivided strength. It is not my privilege to point him out. It is no man's privilege to point him out; that already has been done. By common consent all eyes are turned in one direction. One man there is who, measured by the exigencies of this occasion, stands full head and shoulders above all his comrades, and that man is William McKinley. [Prolonged applause.] There are many reasons why he should be nominated. In the first place he is true and tried and is no experimenter. He has been a long time in public service. He has been identified with every great measure of the Republican party in both field and forum. His tariff course has been one of patriotic conviction, and time will justify this conviction. [Cheers.]

This convention to-day means 500,000 Republicans voters of Ohio have got together and are proud of their party and its principles, proud of its representation in official places, in both State and nation. We are proud of that conservative, patriotic man, General Harrison, who sits in the White House. [Cheers.] We are proud, too, of that brilliant, magnetic statesman, who has taught the law to Europe with respect to America, James G. Blaine. [Prolonged cheers, hat tossing and waving for over a minute.] We are proud also of the representation of Ohio in the Cabinet of the President of the United States, in the person of Charles Foster. [Applause.] We are proud of one great Senator who has served his State with such distinction that he justly enjoys the distinction of standing at the head of the grand men in the greatest legislative body on earth. [Cheers.] Ohio is the Lookout Mountain of the political battle upon which we are entering, and William McKinley is the Joe Hooker of the Republican party. [Cheers.] And we are the boys [laughter] who intend to follow him up its steep and rugged mountain side and help him plant the flag of Republicanism in triumph there [applause] and next year, inspired by this glorious achievement, all our columns from Maine to Oregon will be turned against the common enemy; and as to them it will be as Bragg in 1863. Their lines will be broken and before the resistless onslaught they will be swept back into the depths of defeat and despair. [Applause.] I move you,

Mr. Chairman, that the rules of this convention be suspended and that by acclamation we nominate, to be our candidate for Governor, that brilliant statesman, soldier and orator, William McKinley. [Prolonged cheers.]

Col. Robert Harlan, the colored orator of Cincinnati, seconded the McKinley nomination "on behalf of the colored voters of Ohio." With wild cheers the affirmation of the convention declared Major McKinley nominated for Governor and a committee was appointed to appraise him of his nomination and escort him to the hall. His appearance was the signal for another outburst of enthusiasm. "I now have the pleasure," said the Chairman, "of introducing to you your next Governor, William McKinley Jr." Again the enthusiasm burst forth, and one thousand frantic, cheering, struggling Republicans waved their hats and fans and pounding with their canes, re-echoed the name "McKinley, McKinley."

The hero of the day received his honors modestly. Simply bowing his acknowledgments he spoke as follows: "Chairmen and Gentlemen of the Convention: I accept the nomination you have tendered me, sensible both of the honor and responsibility it implies. The election this year is of unusual importance, not only because it determines the political character of the administration of the State for the coming two years, but because it involves the choice of a Legislature, whose duty it will be to elect a United States Senator, and whose further duty it will be to district the State for representation in Congress under the new census, and wipe from the statute books the crime against Republican suffrage, perpetrated by the present Democratic Legislature. Happily we present a party in Ohio without division in its ranks, without a break in its line. The platform which you adopted meets my approval. The Republican party of Ohio approved the administration of President Harrison, and extends to it hearty congratulation."

"The party is in favor of regulated immigration; of liberal pensions to old soldiers and sailors, and to a sound currency. It is in favor of gold and silver and also paper money based upon coin, all equal and at all times interchangeable; equal in fact and equal in law. We are confronted by real danger, which prudent men of all parties should seek to avert before it is too late. Public credit and sound finance must be preserved, and every scheme to destroy it must be met with courage and intelligence and repelled by the mighty force of public opinion. Better risk defeat, which can only be temporary than capitulate with a demagogue, or surrender to despondency."

"The platform indorses the protective tariff. We have protected American products and American labor. So long as foreign products can be found to tax, which compete with our own in our market, we propose to tax them rather than tax our own. The Democratic party prefers to tax the domestic product rather than the imported. Their tariff legislation would benefit every country but our own."

We follow in our tariff the political teaching of Washington and Hamilton and Clay and Webster and Lincoln and Garfield. They pursue the fallacy of Cobden and Bright and Calhoun and statesmen of the late Southern Confederacy. They are pledged now to impede, if they can, the prosperity of the country until after the next presidential election. That is their mission this year. Business disaster and reverses is the ladder of their hopes. Prosperity and contentment among people bring them sure political defeat. Idle turnaces, dismantled factories, silent mines, unemployed workmen, general distress, are sure harbingers of Democratic victory. They are discouraging industrial activity through their press and orators, everywhere and every day, and it breaks their hearts to see any manifestations of industrial advancement in the United States. They sneer at every attempt to establish new factories and would gladly frown them down. It is the same sneer and frown which has been exhibited toward our industrial enterprises since 1861. But in spite of them we now lead the world in manufactures, agriculture and mining, and will prosper under the new law in spite of their false omens and discouraging prophecies. Referring to the complaints among free traders about the increased duties under the new law, Major McKinley said thirty-three and one-third per cent of them are for the better protection of the American farmer; twenty-eight are upon wine and spirits which will hardly burden farmers; five upon tobacco, an agricultural product. No like recognition of the agricultural industry can be found in any previous tariff legislation. While securing to the farmer a home market by the increased protection, the reciprocity clause is intended to extend his foreign market and upon terms more favorable than those accorded to competing agricultural countries. It is a significant fact that the articles which the farmer most frequently buys bear less tariff than under the law of 1883 and the products which he sells bear a higher duty than ever before. Turning to the State issues, Major McKinley charged the Democratic administration and Legislature with depriving the legally elected Republican Lieutenant Governor of his seat without a legal contest; with making unjust and partisan congressional gerrymander and with unparalleled extravagance in the State expenditures.

Immediately after the close of McKinley's stirring speech there were loud cries of "Sherman," "Sherman." The familiar figure of the Senator from Ohio finally emerged from the crowd in the rear of the hall, and again the enthusiastic scenes of the convention were re-enacted. In his speech Sherman eulogized the Republican party, reviewing its work from the time of its inception.

Continuing, Sherman said: "We therefore can honestly claim our party has been a faithful servant of the people, and is fairly entitled to their confidence and support; but we do not rest our claims upon this alone. We invite the strictest scrutiny into the conduct of the present Republican administration of President Harrison. The recent Republican Congress, in connection with President Harrison, dealt with all the leading domestic questions of the time and with the most important questions with foreign nations. Every one of these have either been settled or is on the way of settlement. The administration of Cleveland settled nothing but the sublime egotism of Cleveland, his opposition to a protective policy, his want of sympathy for Union soldiers and his narrow notion of finance and public credit. He devised nothing and accomplished nothing. The Democratic House passed the Mills tariff bill, but it was rejected by the Senate and by the people in the election of 1888. In marked contrast with this is the Republican administration of Harrison and the recent Republican Congress. First in importance was the entire revision of our revenue laws. This bill was subjected to a most careful scrutiny on the part of both houses and passed as a Republican measure and was approved by the President. It is in my judgment a wise law and will bear the most careful scrutiny. It is a fair law, for it extends its benefits not only to the artisan but to the farmers and producer in every field of employment. By my long experience in passing upon tariff bills, I know that the McKinley bill more carefully and beneficially protects the farmer in his productions than any previous measure of its kind and is inevitable in its effect in encouraging manufactures and will give to the farmer the best possible market for his crops. The bill has received and will bear discussion and will improve on acquaintance. New features of the bill relating to sugar and tin plate will soon demonstrate the most satisfactory results. The increased duty soon to be put upon tin plate will develop, and has already developed tin mines in several States and Territories, so that we may confidently hope in a short period, we will be sweetened by untaxed home sugar and protected by untaxed tin plate. The arts of the demagogue, which were at the last election placed upon the credulous to deceive them as to the effects of the McKinley bill, will soon return to plague the inventors of this Republican measure, with its kindred measures, reciprocity and fair pay to American ships will be among the boasted triumphs of our party in which our Democratic friends will, as usual, heartily acquiesce. The State of Ohio is an important factor in this great union of States and people, Ohio is a Republican State; one that has taken a conspicuous part in the great drama of the past. In an evil hour and under wild delusions, Ohio elected the recent Democratic Legislature. With this warning behind us, let us not be backward or lag in the civic contest in November, but, with a ticket worthy our choice, let us appeal to our fellow citizens to place again our honored State at the head of the Republican column. [Cheers.]

The Committee on Resolutions then reported the platform, which was adopted. The platform reaffirms adhesion to the principles which have guided the Republican party heretofore; to the doctrine of protection, and recognizes the McKinley bill as the ablest expression of that principle. Legislation by Congress as will encourage and protect the interests of agriculture and protection to labor and the rights of laborers is favored. Protection for the wool industry is demanded. The amended coinage act of the last Republican Congress, by which the entire production of the silver mines of the United States is added to the currency of the people, is favored; free and unlimited exercise of the ballot demanded, as is also the enactment of laws to protect the country and people against the influx of the vicious and criminal classes of foreign nations, and the importation of laborers. Economy in administration, National and State; restriction upon combinations of capitalists for unlawful purposes, or at variance with sound public policy; ample educational facilities; reservation of public lands for homesteads for American citizens and restoration to the public domain of all unearned railroad grants is favored. Liberal pensions for the sailors and soldiers of the late war, and generous care of their widows and children is also favored. The patriotism, wisdom and ability of the administration of President Harrison, and especially the policy of reciprocity and vigorous foreign policy is commended. Services of Senator Sherman and his Republican colleagues in the last Congress is also commended; and President Harrison is congratulated upon his selection of Charles Foster as Secretary of the Treasury. The Administration of Governor Campbell is denounced and the Ohio State Legislature, and that of Governor Foraker is held up in comparison as one to be proud of. Other nominations are as follows: Attorney General, General J. K. Richards; Treasurer, W. T. Cope; Supreme Judge, Marshall J. Williams; Auditor, E. W. Peck; Member Board of Public Works, Chas. E. Groce.

For Lieutenant Governor, Andrew T. Harris of Preble county was nominated for the first ballot.

O. T. Carson was nominated for State School Commissioner.

After nominating F. B. McNeal for State Dairy and Food Commissioner, the convention adjourned sine die.

Fire on Long Island.

By Associated Press.

LONG BRANCH (N. Y.), June 17.—No lives were lost in the Sea Bright fire, but every business house in the place was destroyed. One hundred and fifty families are rendered homeless. Men, women and children slept last night in barns, bathing houses and fishing huts, and 500 homeless people were fed at Rutherford Arms at the expense met by the Relief Committee. This morning 700 persons were fed. Lumber has been ordered from Long Branch for the purpose of erecting temporary buildings. It is impossible to estimate the loss, or give the insurance. The fire swept over an area containing thirty acres of buildings. People are still distracted with terror and cannot tell the amount of their losses. Summer cottagers are responding nobly to the appeals for aid. They have already subscribed about $5,000. All wires are down and the streets are filled with half-burned furniture and store goods. The Relief Committee telegraphed to Governor Abbott and Quartermaster General Connelly asking them to loan the State tents for temporary shelter to the sufferers. Eugene Kelly, a stableman, was arrested on a charge of starting the fire. People threaten to lynch him.

Ugly Apaches.

By Associated Press.

St. Louis, June 17.—A dispatch from Santa Fe, N. M., says for some time past numerous strolling bands of Apache Indians have been seen along the border of Arizona and New Mexico in the vicinity of the Black Range. The Indians have been acting ugly and threatening the settlers. A militia company has been organized and at the first indication from the Indians that they mean trouble, another war will be commenced which will drive them out of the Territory or result in their extermination.

New York, June 17.—There was a scene of excitement at Yonkers this morning when all the prisoners in the cells at the police headquarters were found unconscious; the gas had escaped during the night from a broken pipe and had overcome the prisoners. When found they were quickly removed to the open air. One of them recovered and managed to escape during the excitement. At least three will die.

Train in the River.

By Associated Press.

BOONE (Iowa), June 17.—A Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul express train, going east, plunged into Cook river last night in a storm, killing five or six persons, fatally injuring three and seriously wounding from twelve to fifteen. The disaster was caused by the heavy rains undermining the approach to the bridge. The train consisted of an engine and several cars, all of which went into the river, except two sleepers in the rear. The engineer of the train was killed. No definite particulars can be procured, as the railroad people are reticent about the affair.

Later advices from the scene of the wreck on the St. Paul railroad at Coon Rapids, Iowa, state that but one life was lost outright and one of the victims will probably die; twenty were injured, some of them severely. Among the injured are William Longendore of Watsonville, Cal., and M. Rust of Boulder, Colo. An express messenger is missing. The bridge is a total wreck and will be impassable for at least twelve hours. Superintendent Goodnow arrived at daybreak from Omaha and is doing all in his power to care for the wounded. Physicians are on the ground busy caring for the injured preparatory to sending them to their homes.

CATTLE NOTES.

What a Salt Lake Man Has to Say About Live Stock and Ranges.

The Salt Lake Tribune contains this item that is of interest to cattlemen in this section: B. F. Saunders, a representative of Utah cattlemen, returned to this city yesterday morning from a visit to the cattle sections of this Territory and Western Nevada. He was absent one month, and in the course of his travels, purchased 40,000 head of sheep and 15,000 head of two, three and four-year-old beef cattle, all of which are destined for the Eastern market. For the sheep, good, fat wethers, he paid an average of $2.75 per head; for the two-year-old steers, $14.50, and for the three and four-year-olds, from $18 to $20. Of the cattle, 5,000 head have already been shipped to Chicago, where they will be fattened until "ripe" for market. Mr. Saunders reports the ranges everywhere in the sections visited to be in first-class condition, and in consequence cattle are doing better and bringing better prices than for some years past, although the rates at present paid by the slaughterers are not any too good.

The GAZETTE doubts if Mr. Saunders bought any sheep or cattle either in Western Nevada. If he did he paid more than $14.50 for two-year-old steers.

Another Mulhatten.

Sam Davis returned from San Francisco this morning. The Alameda News of the 15th inst. says he was in the city for the purpose of organizing a sewer pipe company. This is a new departure for the Nevada humorist, but as he resembles Mulhatten, there is no knowing what story he may start next.

Democratic Impudence.

Under the caption of "Is the War Over?" the Virginia Chronicle gets in a whine about the national debt and finds fault with the party in power for pensioning old soldiers. In common with very many of the Democratic papers published both north and south, the Chronicle dislikes to see the boys who wore the blue provided for in their old age at the expense of the government they preserved. The Chronicle says:

As pointed out by Mr. McKinley, the aggregate of interest account and pension account is the same now that it was in 1866. Then the former was large and the latter small; at present the proportions are reversed, but the grand total shows no change.

As will be seen, the Chronicle attempts to make the McKinley bill an excuse for its attitude on the question of pensions, but the gauge is too thin. The Republican party fought the late war and cemented the Union into one common whole; it provided liberally for the defenders of the nation by granting pensions to the old and worn-out soldiers who spent the best part of their young manhood in doing battle for a glorious cause. The Republican party has passed the McKinley bill, which protects Americans in the pursuits of good wages and happiness; the Republican party has an eye open to the well being of American industries and is a party of acts and not of empty promises, and for the position it assumes on questions calculated to make respectable American labor, it is roundly censured by the Democratic press that promises much but accomplishes little. The organs of Democracy have always tried to reduce the pension rolls, but the Republican party, ever grateful to the boys who wore the blue, have blocked their game at every corner. The Gazette would not have waved the crimson garment had not the Chronicle given us the cue.

By the time the Commission considering the question of building a railroad to traverse North, Central and South America get ready to report there will apparently be nothing for it to commend than that of building the links to connect existing systems. Mexico, the Argentine Republic and Brazil are busy building railroad lines of great magnitude and importance, and the dream of a line running North and South connecting all the Republics is by no means so visionary now as it was on its first inception.

AS AUSTRIA has admitted one woman to her hospitals on trial the coming of the woman doctor in that country may be safely prophesied. All that the women need to advance themselves in the profession is a fair chance and recognition. They will have serious difficulties to overcome, however, where Mussulmans are numerous, as in some of the provinces of Austria, for the opposition to women doctors by the Turks is based on religious prejudice, and that is very hard to overcome.

GROWN WITHOUT WATER.
What the Soil of Honey Lake Will Do If Given Half a Chance.

George W. Mapes, who returned yesterday from Honey Lake, pulled up a bunch of alfalfa, oats, barley, wheat and rye that grew from seed dropped in the roadway at Logan station, 70 miles north of Reno, the most uninviting spot that can be found. The soil never saw a drop of water that did not fall from the heavens, and is supposed to be strongly impregnated with alkali. The growth averaged from 21 to 31 inches in length and the cereals are well headed out. This shows in a small way what might be accomplished if the land was cultivated. The bunch is hanging in the Gazette window and may be seen by any one interested in the subject.

Recruiting Indians.
Lieutenants Strother and Kingman of the First Infantry U.S.A., arrived last evening from the east and registered at the Riverside. This morning they started for the Walker Lake Reservation for the purpose of recruiting Indians for the regular service. The Plutes ought to make good soldiers, being lazy enough to eat regular rations during the piping times of peace.

ITEMS FOR AMERICANS.

DETROIT, Mich., claims to have fourteen thousand cases of la grippe. It costs the Americans about $1,000,000 a year to plug their teeth. New York pays her aldermen $2,000 a year salary. Buffalo pays hers $1,000 a year salary. Brooklyn pays hers nothing.

THERE are nearly one hundred million acres of land in the territories of Arizona and New Mexico whose ownership is in dispute owing to the confusion growing out of the Mexican grants and the forgeries of Spanish deeds that have been prevalent.

The greatest meat eaters in the world are the people of America, whose average consumption is one hundred and seventy-five pounds per annum. The English come next, with an average of a little over one hundred and ten pounds. The French eat only half as much meat as the English.

MISCELLANEOUS.

The Druggists

In Lowell, Mass., agree in saying that they sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of all other blood purifiers. For instance: F. C. GOODALE: I sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than all other blood purifiers. A. W. DOWS & CO.: Hood's takes the lead of all other Sarsaparillas.

C. F. BLANCHARD: We sell more of Hood's Sarsaparilla than of any similar. MARSTON & SHAW: With us the sale of Hood's is 9 to 1 of any other kind. F. & E. BAILEY & CO.: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines.

CLARKSON & HOBBS: Hood's Sarsaparilla is one of the best medicines we have. Its sale increases every year.

F. P. MOODY: We sell twice as much of Hood's Sarsaparilla as of anything similar. C. A. SWAN: Hood's is the most popular Sarsaparilla of the day.

THIRTY OTHER druggists speak similarly. This popularity at home, where Hood's Sarsaparilla and its proprietors have been known for many years, could not continue if the medicine did not possess merit. And these facts should certainly convince people in other sections of the country that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a good, reliable medicine.

Bad Blood.

Impure or vitiated blood is nine times out of ten caused by some form of constipation or indigestion that clogs up the system, when the blood naturally becomes impregnated with the effete matter. The old Sarsaparilla attempts to reach this condition by attacking the blood with the drastic mineral "potash." Joy's Vegetable Sarsaparilla is modern. It goes to the seat of the trouble. It arouses the liver, kidneys and bowels and invigorates the circulation, and the impurities are quickly carried off through the natural channels.

Charles Lee, of Beulah's Third and Market Sts., S. F., writes: "I took it for vitiated blood and while on the first bottle became convinced of its merits, for I could feel it was working a change. It cleansed, purified and braced me up generally, and every thing is now working full and regular."

THE THIRTY-SECOND REHEARSAL.

The Students of Bishop Whiteaker's School for Girls are Crowned With New Laurels.

A well-filled house awaited the opening of the thirty-second rehearsal of the Department of Music of the School for Girls, last evening. The fantastic music of the Witches Revel, played by the Misses Abrams, Standaway, Lord and Monroe, brought forth a hearty round of applause.

"Under the Old Umbrella," a character duet by Sadie Phillips and Frank Young, was enthusiastically received. Their childish voices gave to the pretty words an added charm. The trio, Addie Boyd, Flo. Lord and Mamie Morrison, played Holst's "On the Battle Ground" with stirring effect. In the chorus, "Ferryman John," the second division of the Treble Clef Club showed their careful training, the soloist especially doing well. Miss Quailie at the organ and Misses Belknap and Martin at the piano gave the first movement of the Symphonie Pastorale by Beethoven, the legato music being played with expression and evenness.

"Gaily Chant the Summer Birds," the first solo of the evening, by Miss Martha Murphy of Carson, won an encore, both the charming song and the sweetness of the singing being appreciated. "Flag of Honor," with eight performers, was well rendered. The great amount of training required for so many to play together with precision can hardly be estimated, and when so perfectly done as by this octet, deserves much praise.

The part song, Queen of the Night, by the First Division Treble Clef Club was the most difficult selection. The three sets of voices accorded remarkably well. The curtain rose at the beginning of the second part on the Delia class of twelve young ladies. Their flowing dresses of delicate tints fairly transforming them into maidens of classic Greece. To the accompaniment of suitable music, the unfolding of the Fern Leaf, and the Feather Song were sung, then in "A Dream of Ancient Greece," the postures representing Repose, Defiance, Suspense, and Vengeance were taken. The graceful movements of the members of the class winning much praise. The musical work was then continued by a lullaby song, Sleepy Little Eyes, by Frank Young who has an unusually sweet voice and whose expression, Misses Flute, Echantee for two pieces was well played by Misses Spencer and Rowland. The Swiss Echo Song of Miss Sabin was appropriately chosen, the young lady taking the high, clear notes of the echo with good effect.

Artistic Gipsy was finely sung by Miss Mary.

An extra number was here introduced, as Mrs. F. B. Layton of Virginia had been persuaded to sing. Her first selection was heartily applauded by the audience, and when for an encore the lady sang Coming through the Rye, she fairly captivated her hearers. As Mrs. Layton is to take charge of the music at the Seminary next term, Bishop Leonard should be congratulated on securing so fine a musician.

The final instrumental piece was a March, Scherzo Fantastique by Misses F. Rowland and M. Rule, who interpreted Joseph's peculiar music with thorough understanding of its beauty.

A quartette of young ladies dressed in appropriate colors sang the "Flower Song" and deserve especial praise, as it was given without musical accompaniment.

"Homebound" by the entire Treble Clef Club was delightfully sung, and ended the program.

At its close an original poem was recited by its author, Miss Vesta Rice, the accomplished daughter of A. T. Rice. The recital was a kindly goodbye to Miss Quailie whose labor with the School for Girls has closed. Miss Rice presented to Miss Quailie, a gold watch, a gift from her friends, as a token of appreciation for past services rendered. The poem was so appropriate and so well written that the GAZETTE reproduces it in full.

FAREWELL, MISS QUAILIE.
To know, to love, and then to part,
Is written of the human heart.
And we who gather here this eve
With our fraught hearts, must needs grieve
For one to us most truly dear,
Who can no longer linger here.
In this school home long years past
Forever walks her lot is cast.

She saw our Bishop's school begun,
And struggles one by one
Each girl who's passed the portals safe
Has known and loved our dear Miss Quailie.
Each who as graduate has faced
The world finds in her heart deep placed
A memory yet of some great fear
Forever in our minds to rear.

Our teacher kind and true she's been,
Nor love or homage failed to give.
But more than this our friend, our guide,
Our school's and city's honest pride,
Her counsel good are changed to grace,
No other quite can fill her place.

To gentle future, to kindly heart
Has been her purpose far and near.
And though we're faint to say farewell,
Our sorrow must full soon quell.
Alas! we cannot keep her here,
"Though lost to sight to memory dear."
Our loss is other's gain we know.
We think 'tis better she should go
A helping hand to others give
And aid them nobler lives to live.

And when her music's soothing voice
No longer bids our hearts rejoice,
No longer tries our grief to soothe
With silvery sounds our minds to move,
Her talent still must ever thrive
In pupils who will doubtless strive
Her name and fame to spread broadcast
In echoes from the school days past.

But better seed than this she's sown,
For Christian work she's well known,
No life in purpose strong and true
But all life must be purer too.
And as a gentle throws its beams
So good deeds shine in fervent gleams
In greener fields and pastures new
Through future years God's work she'll do.

Accept this gift from those whose love
To thoughts of her will ever move.
It carries with it wishes true,
Success and happiness to you,
Farewell! If ever fondest prayer
For others be not lost in air,
Then wait thy well-earned high
And wait thy name beyond the sky.

This rehearsal ends Miss Quailie's work in the School for Girls, and it is with sad hearts that the community say to her, Farewell.

Trains Delayed.

The freight train coming west last night, due here at 9 o'clock, was detained about 3 miles east of Reno by a flat car that broke down at that point, after being run in a disabled condition for some miles in hopes of pulling it into Reno. A wrecking crew went from here and succeeded in removing it, but the accident delayed the passing of the passenger trains until about 1 o'clock this morning.

DEATH VALLEY MYTHS.

As Seen by the Prospector Without Science to Guide Him.

Now that the government scientific expedition has explored Death Valley and fully exposed the characteristics of that natural hothouse, one can be pardoned for "looking backward" and recalling the myths and extravagant stories that were rife with its early history. The writer recalls some of the first explorers that he was personally acquainted with, who twenty-five years ago ventured from one of Nevada's mining camps, and, pushing southward into the unknown deserts of that time, explored the borders of that desert of desolation. They returned in due time with samples of ore, containing gold and silver, cinnabar and galena; specimens of dwarf vegetation, and painted to each, all of which was viewed with curiosity, and the belief that such trophies would for years be rare to any but the hardest and most adventurous prospectors.

Among other curiosities brought back from the trip was a quantity of petrified wood, crystallized like agate in the natural bright colors of resinous pine, showing the rings of the tree as clearly as if just cut. It was sold for fifty cents a pound and by the skill of the lapidary wrought into beautiful ornaments and sent east as souvenirs from the early explorers of this, then wonderful and promising land. It was the romantic era of discovery. The air was filled with stories of wonderful treasures that, in hidden places, were alluring the prospector to attempt hardship, and even danger and death, to expose to the light, and turn into the commercial channels of the world. But the reptiles and insects of that strange section were looked upon with more than ordinary aversion. The rattlers were vicious and wicked looking and the "side winders" with their erratic movements seemed more dangerous than they were. The chuckwallas with their big, snake-shaped tail, was a hideous monster to pick up in the dark, and the sensation was terrifying when one threw one of them from his blankets for the first time. But they were harmless and the Ivanpah Indians considered them dainty food; and we were fully convinced that they were palatable when we came across an old prospector named "Tex," who roamed from there to Arizona frequently, with no other food than the chuckwallas and lizards that he collected on his way. The scientists will probably find no new species in the collection sent to the Smithsonian Institute, but they will appear strange and well repay a careful classification.

"THE LIMITED MAIL."

Reno to Have a Theatrical Treat To-Night.

To-night at McKissick's Opera House "The Limited Mail" will be produced. The play is a sensational and realistic drama. The mechanical and scenic effects are striking pictures of the real; and the departure of the limited mail, the escape and the wreck produce grand effects. As for the play, it abounds in fun, and there is a tinge of that homely pathos running through it that is always welcome and creative of interest. Comment of the play by the Eastern press is laudatory in its praise, and the box-sheet for to-night's performance indicates a crowded house, but there is always room for one more, so engage seats.

The Carson Appeal speaks of the play presented in that city Monday night as follows: "The Limited Mail" drew a good house last night, and gave great satisfaction. The singing and specialty work is first-class, and the scenery and mechanical effects have never before been equaled in Carson. The play is interesting throughout, and is handled by people who know their business.

This morning's Enterprise says: "People expect a mechanical realism to show the pastboard and pretense, and they are usually correct, but 'The Limited Mail' disappointed those who were prepared for the humbug made legitimate by usage. People also expect a very poor play and very cheap acting as the accessories of the flimsy machinery, and in this they were also disappointed last night. The train, telegraphing, etc., were all closely realistic, and the piece an interesting enough story, is presented by a talented company. The boy is good, the woman who is in love is a fair singer, an agile and graceful dancer and a careful actress. Ben Bloom gives the modern tramp the benefit of all doubts and to make up, slouch and hang-dog countenances, is a dandy, though not handsome. He does the tramp thoroughly, seldom overdoes it and is funny in his villainy. There is a type of half-diligent, half-conceited, good-natured Irishman, seldom represented on the stage, and McCoy, as Barney Hogan the section man, is one of those walk the stage as natural and as large as life. All the songs and dances are good, and the play wholly sensational as it is, has all the merit claimed for it in the advance notices.

TYPHOID FEVER.

Miss Mapes Brought Home Prostrated With Typhoid Fever.

Miss Lottie Mapes was brought home to Reno last evening from St. Clair by her aunt, Mrs. G. W. Mapes, and Dr. Hogan. During the trip she was suffering with a low fever and reached here in a low condition, and visitors could not be admitted to see her. Her father and mother arrived from Honey Lake last evening, and it is to be hoped that with the better opportunities for caring for her at home the fever may be checked before a critical stage is reached. The many friends of Miss Mapes hope for her speedy recovery.

Attempted Burglary.

An attempt was made last night to burglarize the dormitory building at the University. Mrs. Howard heard men at work at one of the windows and called to her husband, who took a shot at the fellows as they were retreating hastily towards town. The burglars left a large pocket knife as a souvenir for Mr. Howard, and that may lead to their detection.

Notice.

The members of Engine Company No. 6, Reno Fire Department, are hereby ordered to appear at the engine house, Thursday evening, June 18, 1891, at 8 o'clock sharp for practice. J. FRASER, Chief.

SCHOOL FOR GIRLS.

The Closing Exercises of the Senior Class.

As was announced, the essay reading of the Senior Class of the School for Girls took place this morning. Out of seven essays written by the members of the class the best four were read, being written by Carrie Belknap of Carson, Freddie Lord of Virginia, Addie Spencer and Annie Martin of Reno. The subject given to the entire class was "Hawthorne and His Works," a difficult author to appreciate, but all the essays showed how carefully and intelligently he had been studied. At the close Bishop Leonard read the report of the judges, and the gold medal was awarded to Miss Annie Martin.

According to the usual custom, different prizes had been offered to the pupils at the beginning of the school year, and the winners in the various departments were:

Improvement in music, first prize, Lillian Spencer; second prize, Mabel Godfrey.

Improvement in sewing, two prizes also given, Irene Baker and Annie Sunderland.

Best sampler, Dell Boyd.

Best sewing book, Clara Martin.

Neatest album for the entire year, Mabel Godfrey.

Improvement in painting, Ida Johnson and Kate Mayberry. Best drawing book, Katie Sunderland.

A few months ago the Wide Awake Co. of Boston offered a prize of a complete water-color outfit to any one between the ages of thirteen and eighteen who sent the best figure drawing enlarged from a study sent out by this company. Of course this brought into competition, students from all parts of the country, and to-day the prize arrived for Missie Chapin, a pupil in the Art Department at the Seminary and who is just thirteen years old. This certainly speaks well for the teaching of Miss McElroy.

After the exercises an adjournment was made to the parlor where the work of the scholars was displayed, a most creditable exhibit in painting and drawing and also in the more useful branches of needlework.

GRAND ENCAMPMENT.

The I. O. O. F. Elect Grand Officers for the Above Yesterday.

The Grand Encampment I. O. O. F. of Nevada convened at 10 o'clock Monday morning at Winnemucca. The following named officers were elected for the ensuing year: Grand Patriarch, H. P. Brown of Reno; Grand High Priest, G. R. Krenkle of Winnemucca; Grand Senior Warden, Wm. Easton of Austin; Grand Junior Warden, D. Kitzmeyer of Carson; Grand Scribe, L. Guggenheim of Virginia; Grand Treasurer, J. A. Hudson of Dayton; Inside Sentinel, R. C. Leeper of Reno; Outside Sentinel, M. Reinhardt of Winnemucca; Grand Marshal, Robert Rawhood of Virginia City; Trustees, J. J. Becker of Reno, F. M. Fellows of Winnemucca and J. R. Shaw of Dayton.

Suits for Night Seeing.

From the overland train this morning there alighted two full grown dudes dressed to attract attention. Their clothing was not of the seersucker kind, but something similar, of very breezy cloth, which displayed their manly forms as clearly outlined as if in tight. A running fire of facetious remarks greeted them as they lazily lounged through the crowd.

Dinner for Two. Appetite for One?

Said a dyspeptic to the waiter, ordering for self and friend. And suppose he had had an appetite, it would have agonized him, subsequently, to gratify it. Oh! the abominable pang that even a little meal causes a confirmed victim of indigestion. Fargatory on earth—no less. Altogether unnecessary, though. At once, systematically, a course of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, 7c. unfortunates, saying this we merely echo the recorded experience of thousands who have used the great stomachic to their lasting benefit. For the insinuation of a sluggish liver, and for tardy or irregular action of the bowels, both very apt to accompany dyspepsia, this fine regulator is equally efficient. Malarial complaints, kidney trouble, rheumatism and neuritis when a resort is had to the Bitters.

An Undisputed Test of Merit.

A medicine that has been a household remedy for over fifty years and used in that time by more than 10,000,000 persons must have great merit. Such a medicine is found in Brandreth's Pills. This fact illustrates the value of these pills better than any statement of the proprietors. It will be observed that the dose required to cure is small. One or two pills taken every night for ten or twenty nights will cure dyspepsia, costiveness, rheumatism, liver complaint, all female complaints and weaknesses.

Brandreth's Pills are purely vegetable, absolutely harmless and safe to take at any time.

Sold in every drug and medicine store, either plain or sugar coated.

BREVITIES.

Geromino, the most desperate outlaw in the Southwest, was killed about thirty miles from Benson, Cochise county, A. T., Friday. A reward of $3,000 had been offered for him.

Last evening the Class of '89 R. P. S., held their second re-union at the residence of E. E. Caine. A very pleasant time was had by all and merry making was kept up until a late hour.

Al, dearest of joys that the warm weather brings—The pleasure of taking a squirt at the wall through a number of rare fluid things, with your nose in a big bunch of mint. And a straw hat and genteel summer suit brought at John Sunderland's.

Elder Gerrard, a Presbyterian divine, who was detected at Port Townsend in smuggling opium in a flower pot containing a large geranium, has been convicted of the crime by the United States Court. The flower-pot held 19 cans of prepared opium.

The ornithologist of the Death Valley expedition has secured some rare specimens of mammals, some of which are almost unknown. At Pigeon Spring some fifty specimens of a very rare mouse were taken. Of this peculiar species, but one imperfect specimen taken, about forty years ago, is known to exist.

F. H. Porter, Chief Inspector of the Fire Underwriters of San Francisco, has forwarded the Gazette a circular letter warning the people against fire on the Fourth of July. It would be well for the citizens of Reno to take every precaution possible. See that your hose are coupled up and buckets full of water. It would not be a bad idea to wet down your premises on the morning and evening of the Fourth.

At Tacoma Sunday night a saloon, gambling-house, restaurant, cigar or news stand was open. Only one confederate of two or three fruit-stands in the city dared to keep open, and they will undoubtedly be prosecuted by the saloon-keepers. This is a result of the anti-saloon war. There are saloons in Tacoma the doors of which have never been closed since the time they first opened, from six to ten years ago, until Sunday.
